JENNY LIND OF TO-DAY.—From a letter describing Jenny Lind's recent appearance in Exeter Hall, London, we quote the following:

It was not entirely the fog which made our eyes see dimly the sweet-faced woman sitting by the side of her husband; thinner, older, sadder, but still with the same winning, pathetic atmosphere about every pose, and every expression which conquered all hearts of twenty years ago, disarm all criticism and will continue to do so as long as Jenny Lind's soul remains in Jenny Lind's body. If there be such things as perfect grace of clumsiness, perfect beauty of homeliness, she has them; and they are more lasting than the grace of gracefulness, or the beauty of good looks. As it is with her face, her movements, her attitudes, so it is with her voice. Sacred above all it has lost, it has kept a certain something of individuality that one would know it for Jenny Lind's voice. In spite of the husky chest tones, in spite of the strained and hardly reached C, there is a peculiar soul full quality which has rarely been heard on any stage, except when Jenny Lind has sung. Critics would say—and, perhaps by rules of art, their assertions cannot be contradicted, that Jenny Lind's voice is gone. But, men and woman are still moved to their heart's depths by her singing. I believe if she sings when she is three score years and ten it will be the same.

LONDON, January 16th.—Paris newspapers say a rain of projectiles, some weighing 96 kilograms, unparalleled in the history of the siege was poured into Paris from the Invalides to Odeon. The bombardment is uninterrupted day or night, and so violent that on the night of the 8th, between St. Sulpice and the Museum, shells fell every two minutes, striking hospitals, ambulances, schools, public libraries, Sulpice, Valgrace, and private houses. Women in the streets and in bed were killed, and infants in their mothers' arms were struck. One projectile in the Rue Vanguard killed four children and wounded five. The unrivalled works of art in the Luxembourg Museum are destroyed.
The hospital Valgrace suffered greatly; the wounded were killed in their beds. Paris is transformed into a battle-field, the women showing themselves as brave as men.

SAVE ME FROM MY FRIENDS.—A story was told upon himself by a man who was a notorious long-winded talker.

Said he: "Seeing my friend Jones being bored by a man, who had him buttonholed, and was talking him blind, I called to Jones that I wanted to see him at once on particular business. He came to me, when I explained to him that I had no particular business, but was merely calling him away from being talked to death.

"Very much obliged," said Jones,
"but (looking anxiously about him) who on earth shall I find to save me from you?"

The adjourned session of the Ohio Legislature has commenced. Since the adjournment there have been three personal changes in the Senate and one in the House. Senators Potts, Campbell and Hubbell have resigned—the first to become Governor of Montana and the latter two to be Democratic candidates for Congress. Their successors are of the same politics with themselves. Both houses remain politically divided as at the last session. Senate—Republicans, 19; Democrats, 18. House of Representatives—Republicans, 57; Democrats, 55.

WANTS THE BALANCE.—An Iowa man tried to hug a neighbor's wife, but before he got through, the lady hit him with a rolling pin and put him out doors. The husband took a revolver and went to the man for satisfaction, but concluded to settle it by taking the villain's note for ten dollars, which he traded off for a corn-pow. The man who holds the note can't collect it, the giver of it claiming that he did not get value received. He says that he never will pay the note until he gets the balance of that hug. The case will go to the courts.

A wager is a fool's argument.
